human and social services associate of applied science

Q&A

What can I do with an associate degree in human and social service?

When you finish your associate degree in human services, you're eligible for employment as an assistant to a social worker. In the human services field, students are strongly encouraged to transfer their associate degree to a bachelor's degree program in social work.

Where could I be employed with an associate degree in human and social services?

You might be employed in any agency working with the elderly, mental health, adult or juvenile criminal justice, substance abuse, homelessness, crisis intervention, or any other area where social services are needed.

How is this associate degree different from a bachelor's degree in social work?

After you successfully complete your associate degree program, you'll be eligible to apply to be registered as a social work assistant through the Ohio Counselor, Social Worker, and Marriage and Family Therapist Board. In Ohio, licensed social workers must have a bachelor's or master's degree in social work (social workers might even have a doctoral degree). Different states have different licensing requirements.

Is further education available in this field?

Stark State has transfer agreements with several four-year universities that offer social work programs at the bachelor's degree level. Your advisor can help you determine your best path to a bachelor's of social work degree.

What is the salary range for graduates with a two-year degree in human and social services?

Salaries vary based on individual agency standards, education and experience. Salaries tend to increase with advanced education and credentialing, and Stark State's associate degree can smoothly transfer to a bachelor's degree program. Salary ranges are estimates which can vary due to a number of factors and may change over time.

Can I transfer classes to Stark State College?

You can transfer certain classes you've taken at other colleges/universities. Contact admissions at info@starkstate.edu.

Can I be licensed with an associate degree?

While you can't be licensed in Ohio as a social worker with an associate degree, you can apply to be a register social worker assistant. For more information, contact the Ohio Counselor, Social worker and Marriage and Family Therapist Board at 614-466-0912 or at cswmft.ohio.gov.

How long will it take me to complete the associate degree?

You can enroll as a full-time or part-time student. Part-time enrollment increases the time you need to complete course requirements. Also, your placement scores may indicate additional remedial course work is needed. Classes are offered days, evenings and weekends and at satellite locations. You'll need to attend main campus for some of your classes.

Is there a professional organization for human service professionals?

The National Association of Social Workers is a professional organization for those employed in the human services field.

Is financial aid available?

Yes, you could qualify for financial aid and/or scholarships. Contact the Financial Aid Office about your eligibility at studentservices@starkstate.edu.

Will field work be required for the human and social services degree?

You'll be required to complete observation hours at a community agency in addition to completing 210 hours of a practicum experience.

Are there any areas of specialization in the human and social services degree program?

Stark State also offers an associate degree of applied sciences with a major in gerontology or chemical dependency, along with certificates in gerontology and chemical dependency.
